

Smaragdi Antonopoulou is a Professor of Biochemistry in the Department of Nutrition-Dietetics, School of Health Science and Education. She holds a degree in Chemistry and a Ph.D. in Biochemistry from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (NKUA). She has served as Rector, Vice-Rector for Financial Affairs and Development, Chair of the Department of Nutrition- Dietetics, Dean of the School of Health Science and Education, and Director of the Laboratory of Biology, Biochemistry, and Physiology of Humans and Microorganisms. Her research work includes more than 140 publications in peer-reviewed international scientific journals, 9 chapters in international and Greek collective volumes, 3 invited commentary articles on the International Atherosclerosis Society–Nutrition website, 13 publications in Greek scientific journals, and over 220 presentations at international and Greek conferences. She is involved in 5 patents from the Hellenic Industrial Property Organization (OBI) and in one international patent. She has supervised 10 doctoral dissertations, more than 20 master's theses, a large number of undergraduate theses, and 3 postdoctoral researchers. Additionally, she has successfully coordinated a significant number of programs, including 1 European program, 7 co-funded competitive programs, and 10 programs funded by private entities.